Creating the Workplace of the Future in a Changing World

"The workplace today has evolved rapidly. Today the lines between work and life are incredibly blurred. Join this ideation session to be a futurist and design a workplace of the future — beyond COVID-19! How do we take advantage of the disruption created by COVID-19 and create a workplace vision that has well-being as a foundational element? The session will review how the role of people management, technology and social trends impact the workplace and the workforce of the future. The world of change opens the door to implementing new ideas!" — Mari Ryan
